Army-Community Heritage Partnerships

- Project is a cooperative effort between the Army and the National Trust for Historic Preservation's (NTHP) National Main Street Center (NMSC) organization
- Goals
  - Better serve Army family through enhanced shopping, products, and services offered in the adjacent historic commercial districts
  - Encourage increased economic vitality in the adjacent historic commercial districts by understanding market opportunities afforded by the Army presence
  - Create linkages and parallels between the community pair's historic buildings and cultural heritage
  - Investigate the potential for a heritage tourism strategy that will benefit community economic conditions and add value and opportunity for reuse of Army historic buildings
